

A "free consultation" is an initial meeting, in person or by telephone, in which we discuss some basic facts and I chart out how I may be able to assist you. In general, it should not take more than 30 minutes for you and I to decide if we want to work together.